SEC Approves Amendments to MSRB Rule G-39 on Telemarketing.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) has approved amendments to MSRB Rule G-39, on telemarketing,[1] that expand the scope of the rule to include additional provisions that are substantially similar to Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”) rules prohibiting deceptive and other abusive telemarketing acts or practices.[2] Rule G-39 requires brokers, dealers, and municipal securities dealers (“dealers”) to, among other things, maintain do-not-call lists and limit the hours of telephone solicitations to customer residences. The effective date for the amendments is August 22, 2013.

SUMMARY OF PRINCIPAL AMENDMENTS

General Telemarketing Requirements

Rule G-39(a)(iv) informs dealers that engage in telemarketing that they are also subject to the requirements of relevant state and federal laws and rules, including the Telemarketing and Consumer Fraud and Abuse Prevention Act, the Telephone Consumer Protection Act,[3] and the rules of the Federal Communications Commission relating to telemarketing practices and the rights of telephone consumers.[4]

Maintenance of Do-Not-Call Lists

The amendments to Rule G-39(d)(vi) maintain the requirement that a dealer making telemarketing calls must maintain a record of a caller’s request not to receive further calls. However, the amendments delete the requirement that a dealer honor a firm-specific do-not-call request for only five years from the time the request is made. SEC staff directed the MSRB to delete this provision because the time for which the firm-specific opt-out must be honored under the FTC’s Telemarketing Sales Rule[5] is indefinite, rather than five years as currently provided in Rule G-39.[6] Additionally, the amendments clarify that the record of do-not-call requests must be permanent.

Outsourcing Telemarketing

Rule G-39(f) continues to state that, if a dealer uses another entity to perform telemarketing services on its behalf, the dealer remains responsible for ensuring compliance with all provisions contained in the rule. The amendments clarify that dealers must consider whether the entity or person that a dealer uses for outsourcing is appropriately registered or licensed, where required.

Caller Identification Information

Rule G-39(g) provides that dealers engaging in telemarketing must transmit caller identification information and are explicitly prohibited from blocking caller identification information. The telephone number provided must permit any person to make a do-not-call request during regular business hours. These provisions are similar to the caller identification provisions in the FTC rules.[7]

Unencrypted Consumer Account Numbers

Rule G-39(h) prohibits a dealer from disclosing or receiving, for consideration, unencrypted consumer account numbers for use in telemarketing. This provision is substantially similar to the FTC's provision regarding unencrypted consumer account numbers.[8] Additionally, the amendments define "unencrypted" to include not only complete, visible account numbers, whether provided in lists or singly, but also encrypted information with a key to its decryption. This definition is substantially similar to the approach taken by the FTC.[9]

Submission of Billing Information

Rule G-39(i) provides that, for any telemarketing transaction, a dealer must obtain the express informed consent of the person to be charged and to be charged using the identified account. If the telemarketing transaction involves preacquired account information and a free-to-pay conversion feature, the dealer must: (1) obtain from the customer, at a minimum, the last four digits of the account number to be charged; (2) obtain from the customer an express agreement to be charged and to be charged using the identified account number; and (3) make and maintain an audio recording of the entire telemarketing transaction. For any other telemarketing transaction involving preacquired account information, the dealer must: (1) identify the account to be charged with sufficient specificity for the customer to understand what account will be charged; and (2) obtain from the customer an express agreement to be charged and to be charged using the identified account number. The amendments are substantially similar to the FTC's provision regarding the submission of billing information.[10]

Abandoned Calls

Rule G-39(j) prohibits a dealer from abandoning any outbound telephone call made for the purpose of, among other things, selling municipal securities or services. The abandoned calls prohibition is subject to a "safe harbor" under subparagraph (j)(ii) that requires the dealer: (1) to employ technology that ensures abandonment of no more than three percent of all calls answered by a person, measured over the duration of a single calling campaign, if less than 30 days, or separately over each successive 30-day period or portion thereof that the campaign continues; (2) for each outbound telephone call placed, to allow the telephone to ring for at least 15 seconds or four rings before disconnecting an unanswered call; (3) whenever a dealer is not available to speak with the person answering the outbound telephone call within two seconds after the person's completed greeting, to promptly play a recorded message stating the name and telephone number of the dealer on whose behalf the call was placed; and (4) to maintain records establishing compliance with the "safe harbor." These provisions are substantially similar to the FTC's provisions regarding abandoned calls.[11]

Prerecorded Messages

Rule G-39(k) prohibits a dealer from initiating any outbound telephone call that delivers a prerecorded message without a person's express written agreement to receive such calls. The amendment also requires that all prerecorded outbound telephone calls provide specified opt-out mechanisms so that a person can opt out of future calls. The prohibition does not apply to a prerecorded message permitted for compliance with the "safe harbor" for abandoned calls under proposed subparagraph (j)(ii). These provisions are substantially similar to the FTC's provisions regarding prerecorded messages.[12]

Credit Card Laundering

Except as expressly permitted by the applicable credit card system, Rule G-39(l) prohibits a dealer from: (1) presenting to or depositing into, the credit card system for payment, a credit card sales draft generated by a telemarketing transaction that is not the result of a telemarketing credit card transaction between the cardholder and the dealer; (2) employing, soliciting, or otherwise causing a merchant, or an employee, representative or agent of the merchant, to present to or to deposit into the credit card system for payment, a credit card sales draft generated by a telemarketing transaction that is not the result of a telemarketing credit card transaction between the cardholder and the merchant; or (3) obtaining access to the credit card system through the use of a business relationship or an affiliation with a merchant, when such access is not authorized by the merchant agreement or the applicable credit card system. These provisions are substantially similar to the FTC's provisions regarding credit card laundering.[13]

Exemption

Rule G-39(m) exempts business-to-business calls from most of the provisions of the amended rule. Specifically, the exemption provides that outbound telephone calls from a dealer to a business entity, government, or political subdivision, agency, or instrumentality of a government are exempt from the rule, other than sections (a)(ii) and (d)(i)-(iii), (v) and (vi). The sections of the rule that still apply to business-to-business calls relate to the firm-specific do-not-call list[14] and procedures related to (i) maintaining a do-not-call list, (ii) training personnel on the existence and use of the do-not-call list, (iii) the recording and honoring of do-not-call requests, (iv) application to affiliated persons or entities, and (v) maintenance of do-not-call lists.

Definitions

Rule G-39(n) includes the following definitions, which are substantially similar to the corresponding definitions in the FTC's Telemarketing Sales Rule:[15] "acquirer," "billing information," "caller identification service," "cardholder," "charitable contribution," "credit," "credit card," "credit card sales draft," "credit card system," "customer," "donor," "free-to-pay conversion," "merchant," "merchant agreement," "outbound telephone call," "preacquired account information" and "telemarketer." Additionally, the amendments delete the reference to "telephone solicitation."

Rule G-39(n) also includes definitions of "person" and "telemarketing" that differ slightly from the FTC's and FINRA's definitions to be more appropriately tailored to the municipal securities market. Specifically, the definition of "person" in MSRB Rule G-39(n)(xvii) tracks the definition in the FTC and FINRA rules to include any individual, group, unincorporated association, limited or general partnership, corporation, or other business entity, but further defines a "person" to include a government, or political subdivision, agency, or instrumentality of a government. The definition of "telemarketing" is limited to calls "pertaining to municipal securities or municipal financial products."

Questions about the amendments may be directed to Lawrence P. Sandor, Deputy General Counsel, or Darlene Brown, Assistant General Counsel, at 703-797-6600.
