CUSIP: U.S. Corporates Poised for Growth, Munis in Decline, International Corporates Mixed.

“Sentiment surrounding new security issuance reflects the overall sense uncertainty that is prevalent in today’s capital markets,” said Richard Peterson, Director, Global Markets Intelligence, S&P Capital IQ. “While the appetite for new U.S. corporate issuance remains strong, significant declines in municipal bond and international debt ID request volume underscore a ‘wait-and-see’ sensibility among many issuers.”
