MUNICIPAL ORDINANCE - FLORIDA

Masone v. City of Aventura

Supreme Court of Florida - June 12, 2014 - So.3d - 2014 WL 2609201

The Supreme Court of Florida took up the issue of whether municipal ordinances imposing penalties for red light violations detected by devices using cameras were invalid because they were preempted by state law.

The Court concluded that such municipal ordinances were preempted by state law.
