The Tech Companies Helping Government Meet Its Mission.

The fourth annual GovTech 100 list will be released this week.

This week's release of the 2019 GovTech 100 list, compiled and published by Government Technology, marks the maturation of what began four years ago as a way to recognize companies founded to solve problems unique to the public sector.

Together, GovTech 100 companies represent a growing portfolio of scalable, digital solutions addressing the tough, complicated problems that governments face — from health care and public finance to urban planning and public safety.

On this episode of "Go Public," we hear from the analysts who developed this year's list, a pair of founders of GovTech 100 companies, and a venture capitalist about the market's dynamics and what they mean for governments.
