- And finally, Great Moments in Forensic Science is brought to us this week by State v. Wright, in which a small town police officer received a tip that, "a male nicknamed 'Beef' was selling drugs." The officer began secretly collecting Beef's trash. He then enlisted the technological might of the state crime lab to identify the suspicious material he had recovered. According to the Supreme Court of Iowa, "The crime lab confirmed that the poppy seeds were poppy seeds." The State of Iowa's entire criminal investigation system was subsequently brought to its knees when Beef discarded the remains of an everything bagel.
