Muni Investors Stage Rare Challenge of $1 Billion Bond Deal.

- Investors believe university ‘has no legal basis’ to call debt
- Deal is part of a wave of planned refundings using ERP call

A group of investors is challenging a $1 billion municipal bond refunding by the Regents of the University of California.

The bondholders said there’s “no legal basis” to allow the refinancing, according to a copy of a letter seen by Bloomberg News and people with knowledge of the matter. The debt was priced on Tuesday.

The deal is part of a wave of planned refundings that would replace taxable debt sold under the Build America Bonds program more than a decade ago with lower-yielding, tax-exempt securities. Some investors are questioning their legality, which hinges on a provision in the bond documents that allows state and local governments to buy back their debt before it comes due if an extraordinary event occurs.
